"TEN NIGHTS"—THE WORLD'S GREATEST SCREEN ATTRACTION ARROW'S MASTERPIECE

Churches are acclaiming this picture, so are ex-liquor dealers et al. One of the most remarkable features accompanying the presentation of this great picture, "Ten Nights in a Barroom," which will be shown at the Opera House, on Friday, December 22nd, is the interest which it has aroused amongst religious teachers all over the United States of America. It appears they agreed to forget their differences and tell the people to go and see "Ten Nights" and what it did in the past; what it would continue to do in the present if the old condition of things which led to the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment remained in force.

People may argue and haggle over the wisdom of the Eighteenth Amendment in the general sense but no one in any grade of society should be in doubt of the wisdom of abolishing the saloon; that hideous sore-spot of every town; that unspeakable vile den in which so much of the sin and misery of the world has been plotted and committed. Whether or not "Ten Nights in a Barroom" as a novel and as a play had anything to do with the closing of the saloon, at any rate, in the picture, you see what the saloon was at its worst.

There isn't a city on the face of the globe that has not been cursed by the saloon; there isn't a man over twenty-five or thirty years of age who has not seen the truth but could give a volume of evidence against those dens of villainy; there isn't a person, there isn't a community, there isn't a country that has not suffered from them. And if "Ten Nights" was responsible for abolishing those places, then all the more credit to "Ten Nights."

All the same, the picture "Ten Nights in a Barroom" does not preach. It tells a very fine, heart-interest story. And it is not a gloomy picture. There is a great deal of humor in it; a great deal of human nature at its best and at its worst; a great deal of pathos, tragedy and action.

There will also be shown Charlie Chaplin's latest comedy, "A Day's Pleasure." Dance after show. Music by Small's three-piece orchestra.

The house in which William Taylor Adams wrote many of his "Oliver Optic" books is being torn down at Dorchester, Mass., to make way for a garage. This will open up the memory of many old-timers and recall the days when they "took out" Rollo, Oliver Optic, G. A. Henty, Elsie Dinmore and the Prudy books from the Sunday school circulating library. The times have changed. Youth in the old days read adventure based on the outdoor life of a world that was far from conquered commercially and geographically. Today youth finds most of its adventure in science.

Do you ever kill birds? An international organization to protect bird life is started in London. It is a wise move, dovetailing in with similar work carried on in America. Birds are the antidotes for insects which yearly destroy a billion dollars' worth of our crops and forests, according to Dr. Fred J. Seaver, expert on insects. Man has conquered the wild beasts. Our greatest remaining enemy is insect life, now battling us for supremacy on earth. Birds, the natural enemies of insects, also are destructive. But they are enjoyable, not pests.

The buffalo, once so near to extinction, has increased so much in the Canadian government park at Wainwright that the authorities are contemplating slaughtering 1,000 bulls. Thirteen years ago the government obtained the nucleus of the herd from a half-breed Indian in Montana. Since then the animals have multiplied eight and a half times and now number about 7,000. The estimated value is $2,000,000.

King Constantine, that was, complains that he is annoyed by the attention he attracts. Let him be reassured. If he'll keep still for a couple of months, the world won't remember who he is when it meets him on the street.

About the noisiest financial operation in the world these days is cutting a melon. It always suggests the thought that behind the social unrest is not what we ourselves lack but what other fellows seem to have.

Run Down?

Kidney and bladder troubles are not limited to men. Housework, or work in office or factory, causes women to suffer from weak, overworked or diseased kidneys. The symptoms are: puffiness under the eyes, sallow skin, constant tired feeling, lack of ambition, nervous condition, backache, rheumatic pains, sore muscles, stiff joints.

Foley Kidney Pills

get right at the cause of suffering and misery, regulate the kidneys and bladder and restore the diseased organs to sound and healthy condition.

Mrs. Wm. Fischer, 2009 Woodhouse Ave., Louisville, Ky., writes: "I am just getting started. I am taking Foley Kidney Pills every night. You should have seen me before I started. I was yellow as gold, now my eyes and skin are all cleared up. My kidneys are no longer so tight any more. It is a relief to have some other poor soul who is suffering you may use my name wherever your medicine is advertised."
